

DUTY NOW FOR THE FUTURE

HAIKU

Wednesday August nineteenth 1998
this is our set list sucka...
So sing along or we'll kick your butt!

1. behind closed doors evil robots are plotting to rule the world—ode to the multilateral agreement on investment
2. Haiku Fight Song—ode to the bench in front of the replay lounge
3. you shook me all night long—ode to the sleep resistance & coffee
4. Sweatshops and the joy of Sex—ode to Kathy Lee

Some thoughts from the desk of General Haiku:

Hello dear devoted Haiku Fans. Hardcore as a Genre in the year nineteen ninety eight Has become a sick mutant of what hardcore punk rock use to stand for. Now a days you have 4$ seven inches, bands that sing songs with out curse words, and bands that are so slow you fall asleep during Their 30 minute set. This is why you must join the Haiku revolution in hardcore, TODAY! Haiku is bringing The spirit of '84 big brother hardcore back. Most don't remember those years when punk was about Destroying this fucked up amerikan society. So stop your apathetic bullshit of a life and do something. Fuck shit up Haiku style end always remember: the noise the noise the noise.
